

UNITED STATES THIRD CLASS MAIL

Third class mail deals with a variety of material with the most common single piece mail being circulars, miscellaneous printed matter, and transient rate newspapers. Most often the cancellations do not show a date and year. As such this mail could not be tracked for how long it took to deliver it. However, circular date stamps do appear, infrequently, on third class mail. Third class mail was to be sent unsealed. This requirement eventually led to the development of tension (tie-string) and clasp envelopes. This exhibit provides an overview of third class mail for a period of 100 years (1863 to 1963). Mail of printed matter in the period 1845-1863 was not classified as third class mail but was called "circular mail". This can be considered a "precursor" to third class mail. The sections of this exhibit are divided by rate. Significant items have a red matte.

Third class permit mail from December 5, 1904. It is the earliest documented territorial permit mail usage. It came from Mesilla Park, New Mexico. (APES Cert.)
